

The Forgotten Horizons: Embracing the Unknown

Once upon a time, there lived a young fisherman named Diego. He was known throughout the village for his daring spirit and love for the sea. Every morning, he would set out in his small fishing boat, seeking the bounty of the deep waters. The villagers admired his courage but also worried about his relentless pursuit of the unknown.

One crisp morning, a thick fog blanketed the horizon. With a firm resolve in his heart, he ventured farther out into the open sea than he ever had before. The waves grew larger, and the fog denser, but Diego's spirit remained unshaken. Hours turned into days as he journeyed through the fog. He fished and contemplated, wondering what lay beyond the horizon that had always marked the limits of his world.

As he continued, the fog began to lift, revealing a sight that left him breathless. Before him stood a massive, ancient shipwreck, half-submerged in the water. Diego marvelled at the sheer size of the wreck, realizing it was unlike anything he had ever encountered. Determined to explore this new world beneath the waves, he donned his diving gear and descended into the deep where he discovered a hidden treasure chest, encrusted with barnacles and covered in silt. Upon opening it, he found a collection of ancient journals filled with the stories of sailors who had journeyed through uncharted waters, sailors who had dared to venture beyond boundaries and embrace the mysteries of the sea.

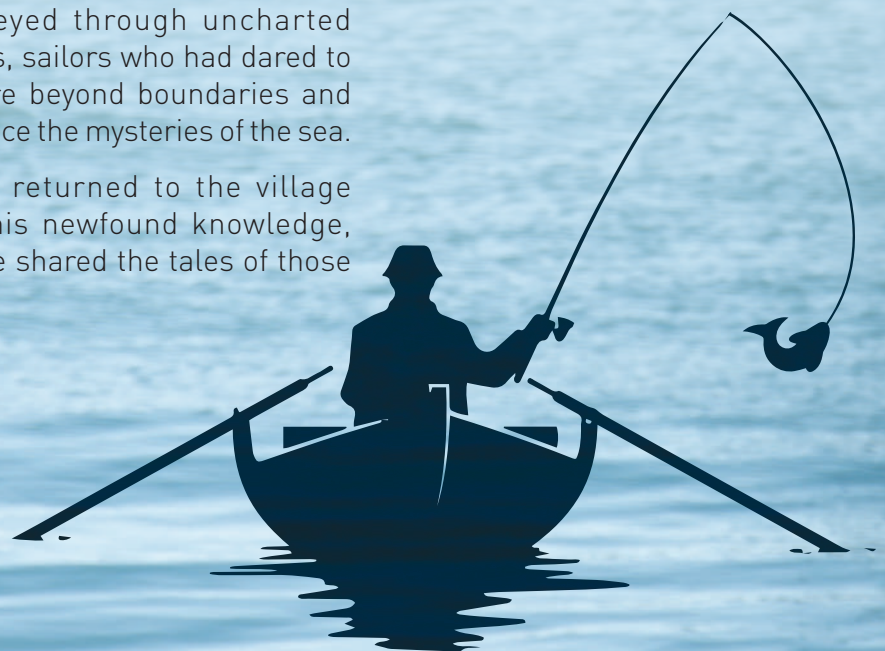

Diego returned to the village with his newfound knowledge, and he shared the tales of those brave souls who had sailed beyond the horizon, exploring the world's unseen wonders. The villagers were awakened by the stories. They too began to push the boundaries of their own lives, seeking the unexplored, embracing the mysteries, and discovering the untapped potential within themselves.

In the end, Diego's journey had inspired an entire village to go beyond their self-imposed limits and embrace the boundless possibilities that life offered. It was a reminder that sometimes, the most powerful lessons are learned when we dare to step beyond the familiar and into the realm of the unknown, where our true potential lies waiting to be discovered.

A WORD FROM OUR MANAGING PARTNER

We had an eventful quarter. Doing business in India book launch, additions to the partner board, celebrations, and meeting luminaries, where GNR eclipsed all. Well done ASAians. The spirit is strong, as is the will.

On the side bar of this page is an adage. Simple but profound. The firm too soars or is limited by our individual efforts, which join to characterize our firm. Recently, I met the managing partner of a large UK firm. Later, while in San Francisco, I heard and interacted with some top global leaders of the accounting profession. Two thoughts emerged. India is the new investment darling. No doubt. Their clients are talking possibilities here. Second, the profession is dramatically changing and those who are not thinking innovation will likely be left behind. The India opportunity will spread across, but the lion share goes to those who are ahead in the game – in marketing, client servicing and internal processes.

We are doing great as a firm. But to remain great, we must innovate and adapt. That requires playing with new ideas. Of late, I hear lesser of these. Certainly on refining our administrative set up, but not so much on improving vis a vis the competition and flagging new opportunities. There is no age or hierarchy in originating great ideas. I encourage each of you to share your thoughts, especially our young Turks. My fellow ASAians, the tail winds are good for India and the firm. You want to soar. The firm wants to soar. Between us, let's begin talking opportunity and innovation.

And the most important ingredient is the soaring spirit within each. Look at the travels we do, the love we spread and the openness with which we share. We are a happy experimenting bunch. Fantastic!

I am already visualizing the festival season upon us and what wonderful things each of you will share soon. Life is beautiful, and you guys add some more to that. Touchwood!

Best regards

Exploring the Rich Tapestry of Hyderabad

Hyderabad, the capital city of the Indian state of Telangana, is a city that beautifully blends tradition and modernity. With a rich history dating back to the Qutb Shahi and Nizam eras, Hyderabad is a city that boasts of splendid architecture, delectable cuisine, and a unique cultural heritage. In this article, we'll take you on a journey to explore the essence of Hyderabad, from its historic landmarks to its vibrant street life.

Charminar - The Iconic Monument

A visit to Hyderabad is incomplete without witnessing the iconic Charminar. This magnificent structure, built in 1591 by Muhammad Quli Qutb Shah, is a symbol of the city. Its four grand arches and 56-meter-high minarets are a testament to the architectural brilliance of the bygone era. You can also explore the bustling markets around Charminar, where you'll find everything from exquisite jewellery to traditional clothing.

Golconda Fort - A Historical Marvel

Golconda Fort, another gem from Hyderabad's history, is a majestic fortress that once housed the world-famous Kohinoor diamond. The fort's intricate architecture, acoustic wonders, and breathtaking views from the top make it a must-visit for history enthusiasts. The Sound and Light Show in the evenings narrates the fort's fascinating history.

Hussain Sagar Lake - Heart of the City

Hussain Sagar Lake, a man-made wonder, is a peaceful oasis in the heart of Hyderabad. You can enjoy a boat ride on the lake or visit the colossal Buddha statue located on an island in the center. The serene surroundings make it an ideal spot for a leisurely evening.

The Statue of Equality

The Statue of Equality is a majestic monument that embodies the teachings and legacy of Sri Ramanujacharya, a revered philosopher and theologian. Standing at a towering 216 feet, it's a tribute to his profound contributions to the Bhakti movement and Hindu philosophy. Crafted in intricate detail, the statue depicts Sri Ramanujacharya with disciples. The monument's architectural grandeur includes an expansive meditation hall, a museum showcasing his life, and a library.

Dr. B.R. Ambedkar

The B.R. Ambedkar statue in Hyderabad stands as a towering tribute to the social reformer and architect of the Indian Constitution, Dr. B.R. Ambedkar. Located in the heart of the city, this magnificent bronze sculpture symbolizes his enduring legacy in promoting social justice and equality. The statue, with its commanding presence, serves as a focal point for gatherings, protests, and celebrations that honor his contributions to marginalized communities. It's a powerful reminder of his relentless pursuit of equal rights and opportunities for all, particularly the oppressed and marginalized.

The Hyderabadi Biryani

Let's not forget the Hyderabadi Biryani, a culinary masterpiece, which is proof of the city's food culture. This fragrant and flavorful dish is prepared with basmati rice, tender meat, and a blend of aromatic spices. Paradise, Bawarchi, and Shadab are just a few of the iconic restaurants where you can savor this delicious delicacy.

Hyderabad is a city that effortlessly preserves its historical legacy while embracing modernity. Whether you're a history buff, a foodie, or simply looking for an enriching travel experience, Hyderabad offers a diverse range of attractions and experiences. So, next time you visit this fascinating city, remember to explore its rich tapestry of history, culture, and flavors, and truly get to know the city.

Laughter at the office transcends boundaries by transforming the workplace into a more inclusive, collaborative and harmonious space.

A Call to Laughter: The Chronicles of a Trainee's First Client Interaction

From joining the corporate world for the first time, making immense happy memories in the office, managing those classes and studies, till bidding farewell at the end of the training, the life of an Article Trainee is not that easy. It all begins with learning the basics - from mastering the art of document handling and correct stapling to navigating the office printer, composing formal emails and becoming adept at scanning documents.

Article Trainees embark on a journey that indelibly shapes their professional lives. The camaraderie among the trainees makes even the most mundane tasks enjoyable as they bond over shared struggles and small victories.

Yet, one memory stands out among the rest: the nerve-racking experience of communicating directly with a client for the first time. It's a moment that resonates with all of us. The mere thought of crafting a one-minute dialogue filled with professionalism and a hint of charm ties the stomach into knots. Every trainee can relate to the struggle of finding the right words and striving to sound formal while exuding confidence.

Here comes the unforgettable moment when Jaspreet was entrusted with the daunting task of making her first call to the Income Tax department. Arti had asked Jaspreet to make a call to enquire about some tax matter, and with a nervous mind and trembling hands, Jaspreet finally got the number. She kept trying to call and as the seconds became minutes, anxiety took over her. She hastily disconnected the call convincing herself that it was her technological incompetence at play.

With a tinge of embarrassment, Jaspreet informed Arti that the call wasn't going through. Right at that moment, the phone rang. Summoning her courage, Jaspreet answered the call and provided all the details to the person on the other side of the phone. What came to our surprise was when she said "Ayee haye aarti yeh to mujhe kahin aane ko bula rhe hai" and Arti was like "Kon hai bhai?". The unexpected reply from the other end had us laughing uncontrollably: "Ma'am mai EDP se baat kar raha hun, laptop check karna hai to yahaan aa jao".

The tale of Jaspreet's misadventure became a cherished memory, reminding us that amid the seriousness and demands of professional life, it's these moments of shared laughter that add color to our journey. It serves as a poignant reminder that, no matter how challenging the corporate world may be, hearty laughter often proves to be the best compass for navigating its twists and turns.

Sky is not the limit

Space missions defy the limits of our terrestrial existence, transcending geographical, cultural, and scientific boundaries, while pursuing groundbreaking discoveries and technological innovation.

The third lunar mission undertaken by our esteemed Indian Space Research Organisation (ISRO) embodies the spirit of innovation, curiosity, and dedication that defines our nation. Building on the success of its predecessors, Chandrayaan-1 and Chandrayaan-2, this mission aims to achieve a significant milestone in our space journey toward unravelling the mysteries of the moon.

The knowledge gained from this mission will not only contribute to the global scientific community but will also benefit us in various ways, from space exploration to technological advancements. The significance goes beyond scientific discoveries. It represents India's prowess in space technology and our ability to undertake complex missions independently. It showcases our commitment to peaceful exploration, international collaboration and the spirit of inclusivity in the pursuit of knowledge.

The dedication and hard work of our scientists and engineers have made it possible for India to embark on this remarkable journey. Their relentless efforts remind us that SKY IS NOT THE LIMIT for our dreams and aspirations, it is just the beginning of what we can achieve as a nation. It ignites a sense of pride in all of us and motivates the youth to work with dedication for the nation, knowing that we are part of a nation that dares to dream big and accomplish the seemingly impossible. In a major achievement, Aditya-L1, India's first solar mission, has successfully performed the third earth-bound manoeuvre.

As we stand on the cusp of new discoveries and achievements, let us remember that the future holds limitless possibilities, and together, as one nation, we shall continue to soar to greater heights.

A Marvel in Metal

Ever wondered how one could use a piece of metal as a mirror? Well, it is possible! The Aranmula Kannadi – The mirror of Aranmula, is a traditional masterpiece crafted by a few artisans, who alone possess the secret to the mix of the metals.

In Malayalam, “Kannadi” means “mirror.” The exact metals used in the alloy are maintained as family secrets; metallurgists suggest that the alloy is a mix of copper and tin, so a type of speculum metal. It is polished for several days to achieve the mirror's reflective surface using an abrasive paste made by mixing rice bran with oil extracted from the seeds of Marotti (Hydnocarpus pentandrus).

Unlike ordinary mirrors, which have a gap between the object and the image, in the Aranmula mirror, there is no gap. It is completely handmade and reflects with zero distortion. Only a few Vishwakarma families in Aranmula, a small town in Kerala, know the secret to craft these 250-300 years old metal mirrors.

Aranmula Kannadi is thought to bring good luck and is widely known not only in India but outside of India as well. Every piece is the result of hours of effort and hard work.

The British Museum in London has an Aranmula mirror 45 centimeters tall in its collection. The mirrors received a geographical indication (GI) tag in 2004-05.

Travelling is a transformative journey that enriches our understanding of the world and ourselves.

Trek to Nethravathi Peak

Amidst the monsoon and mist, a group of seven colleagues from the Bengaluru Assurance Team decided to embark on an adventure trip after wrapping up the audit season.

We set off on this thrilling journey at 7 a.m., heading to Pandavara Betta and Bettada Bairaveshwara Temple (1000-year-old), 35km from Sakleshpur in Karnataka. The 5-hour drive from Bangalore was just the beginning of the adventure. Upon arrival we quickly started the ascent, reaching the peak in 45 minutes. The climb was not easy with strong winds blowing, leeches and slippery terrain. However, the reward was the breathtaking view of the serene and lush green landscape. After a challenging trek, we arrived at our remote homestay in Samse, a small village with no mobile network.

The following day, we trekked the 1520-meter-high Nethravathi Peak. The journey began with a perilous ride on the narrow mud roads in an open Bolero pickup jeep. We crossed a beautiful mini waterfall and a challenging hill path, eventually reaching the hilltop after a three-hour effort to get a panoramic view of lush green hills all around. The travelling mist only enhanced the natural beauty of this untouched paradise. The place is a true haven for nature lovers!!

Shruti R Bhat – ASR [BLR]

Unforgettable ride to Kyarki

While nature was busy cleaning up, people in the mountains were left hungry and without shelter. It was tough to watch them struggle while we, city folks, were just waiting for the roads to be fixed so we could go back to our idea of 'peace'.

I went to a place dear to my heart, Kyarki, a small village with a majestic view of the Ganga River and Rishikesh. As I rode my bike to this village known for its beautiful sunset spot, I could feel the change. The smooth roads turned into muddy and rocky paths, and the green mountains turned into dry, rocky terrain.

At the sunset spot, people were struggling to get there and catching their breath while enjoying the view. Going deeper into the village, I sat around a bonfire sipping tea with locals and started talking about what had happened. What stood out the most were the warm smiles on their faces and their resilient attitude of "life goes on".

Their stories reminded me that life is an unpredictable journey, filled with both hardships and joys. From Kyarki I carried with me not only memories of a beautiful sunset but also the enduring wisdom that the key is not to be overwhelmed by the challenges but to approach them with resilience and a smile.

Lombok – The Indonesian Gem

Chalo, let's embark on 2 weeks of wandering with my camera as a faithful companion, ready to capture what is, to date, the best trip I've ever had.

After a first stop in Kuala Lumpur, I headed off to Lombok Island, Indonesia. Enthusiast of solo road trips (though stressed!), I rented a scooter to explore the island following my itinerary which I carefully prepared beforehand.

After spending three days roaming between beaches with turquoise water and sunsets over the ocean, I then headed for the centre of the island, very rural and lush, dotted with rice fields, jungle, and waterfalls (where you can swim!). There, I met my friend 'Mount Rinjani', a volcano rising to 3,726 metres. After the 8-hour climb, which literally tested my limits, we spent the night at the top which allowed me some breathtaking views of the crater and the Milky Way. Following the climb down, I headed to the island of Gili Meno or should I say paradise on Earth? This was the second highlight of the trip: swimming with turtles and observing coral reefs.

Léa Parmentier – ES [DEL]

Memorable trip with Colleagues

One day I got a call from one of my coworkers inviting me on a road trip to Kerala. Surprisingly I instantly agreed, shocking my friends who knew I wasn't much of a travel enthusiast. The day of the journey came, we turned on Vijay Antony's playlist and hit the road straight to our first destination, Pollachi. We enjoyed bathing in the beautiful waterfalls relishing the natural beauty of the region.

We travelled to a hill station where we spent a memorable night in a tent camp. But the most unforgettable part of our trip was our last destination Kochi. We decided to roam the Marine Drive wearing matching shirts. The moment we stepped into the streets we became the centre of attention. Everyone who saw us couldn't help burst into laughter. A girl on a bus even took a picture of our peculiar group. We kept wondering what was amusing about us, but we were having a blast!

Reflecting on my first trip with colleagues, I can only tell that everyone must go on a trip with their office mates, at least once, so that people can get to know the real you.

CA Day

This day marks the anniversary of the Institute of Chartered Accountants of India (ICAI) which was formally established on the same day in 1949: a day to honor our esteemed Chartered Accountants at ASA. The celebration commenced with SC-RC Mumbai felicitating newly qualified CAs and presenting personalized pens engraved with their names. Meanwhile, SC-RC Hyderabad, organized a delightful meal and distributed presents.

Outing to Kanakapura

SC-RC Bangalore organized their quarterly outing to ELIM Resort, near Kanakapura. The whole team had a lot of fun with both indoor and outdoor activities, including rope walking and rain dancing and finishing off with drinks, lunch and high tea.

Monsoon Waterfall Trek

The monsoon trek to "The Secret Waterfalls" stands out as one of the highlights of the year for the Mumbai office. It offered an amazing opportunity for the team to escape the regular routine and enjoy breathtaking mountains and serene natural surroundings.

Bowling time!

Hyderabad team went out to enjoy variety of indoor games, bowling was the highlight of the day. This much-needed excursion provided the team with a refreshing break while fostering commemorative experience for all.

Friendship Day

In Bangalore office, few staff gathered and shared their ideas and thoughts about friendship. SC-RC distributed friendship bands to everyone to tie to one another symbolizing togetherness and unity.

Onset of Monsoon

SC-RC Delhi and Gurgaon celebrated the arrival of the Indian monsoon with chai and samosas!

Onam

On Onam a beautiful "pookkalam" (flower arrangement) was the collaborative effort of SC-RC Kochi. Teams actively participated in events like Thiruvathira and Vadam vali (Tug of War), fostering camaraderie among staff from various departments. The grand Onam feast was a highlight uniting the entire staff. Additionally, on the eve of Onam, a small pookkalam at the office and delightful payasam (kheer) added festivity to the workplace.

Hindi Diwas

Taking pride in our rich culture, SC-RC Mumbai celebrated Hindi Diwas. Quiz was organized followed by prize distribution and sumptuous snacks.

How has the journey in ASA been?

I joined ASA in May 2019 as a Senior Manager, when Risk advisory was part of Assurance with only 4 clients and 5 staff working on Risk Advisory assignments. Over the past 4 years, it has been an immense pleasure to watch risk advisory evolve into a separate vertical with more clients and more staff. I am grateful to the partners and other colleagues who have supported me during this journey. It is a joy to come to the office every day and spend time with this wonderful team.

How do you see the profession changing in the coming years?

Our profession is changing rapidly. Technology has to be embraced by everyone, or else we will be left behind. All task-based activities may be taken over by AI very soon.

What is that one skill you would suggest that everyone must develop?

"Caring" is one of the most timeless and a core skill that I would consider as a foundational skill.

What do you do to de-stress yourself?

I play cricket during weekends, explore cooking and try new dishes.

Who is an inspiration for you?

Our Prime Minister Mr. Narendra Modi. His energy and dedication are remarkable. Even if we can replicate 50% of it, we will be highly successful.

What is that one habit you have practiced over the years, which has helped you reach here?

Working honestly and having no expectations.

The most memorable moment of your life?

Passing my CA exam.

What is the best advice you have got from your mentors at ASA?

Stay humble and grounded, have gratitude, never forget the basics, take initiative, and follow-up.
